

RealAgriculture and CAPI announce strategic partnership to amplify policy dialogue in Canadian agriculture

RealAgriculture and the Canadian Agri-Food Policy Institute (CAPI) are pleased to announce a new collaboration aimed at expanding conversations and analysis around agricultural policy in Canada. Through this partnership, RealAgriculture and CAPI will deliver a series of webinars, policy briefs, and written commentary designed to engage and inform stakeholders across the agri-food value chain.

CAPI, a non-partisan, not-for-profit organization dedicated to providing independent, evidence-based policy analysis, has been a trusted voice in Canadian agricultural circles for years. Its managing director, Tyler McCann, is no stranger to RealAgriculture audiences, having been a frequent and insightful guest on the RealAg Issues Panel, which airs Fridays on RealAg Radio on SiriusXM Rural Radio Channel 147.

“This partnership is a natural extension of the work we’ve already been doing with Tyler and the team at CAPI,” says RealAgriculture founder Shaun Haney. “There’s a real need in Canadian agriculture for more accessible, timely, and thoughtful analysis of ag policy issues. By working together, we’re excited to bring even more of those conversations to our audience across multiple platforms, driving better outcomes for the industry.”

The partnership will focus on enhancing understanding of emerging and ongoing policy issues that affect Canadian producers, processors, and the broader agri-food system. Webinars will offer live engagement opportunities, while written policy briefs and columns will provide in-depth perspectives and actionable insight.

“CAPI is excited to work with RealAgriculture to bring important policy topics to the forefront,” says McCann, managing director of CAPI. “We look forward to helping farmers, industry leaders, and policymakers better understand the implications of policy decisions and the opportunities to shape the future of Canadian agriculture.”

This collaboration aligns with both organizations’ shared mission to improve policy literacy and facilitate informed dialogue that contributes to a more competitive, sustainable, and resilient agri-food sector in Canada.
